To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to enthusiastically recommend Jerren, a student I have had the pleasure of working with during his time at Berkeley College. As the college's mental health counselor, I have come to know Jerren well and have witnessed firsthand his exceptional character, work ethic, and contributions to our community.

Jerren exemplifies dedication and discipline. While maintaining a rigorous academic schedule of over 15 credits each semester, he has also successfully managed a career in real estate-an impressive feat that speaks to his outstanding time management and organizational skills. He consistently demonstrates maturity, professionalism, and a strong sense of responsibility in all he does.

Beyond his academic and professional commitments, Jerren is an integral part of our campus community. He is deeply respected by both his peers and the faculty for his warm, approachable nature and his ability to connect with people from all backgrounds. He is articulate, punctual, and a natural leader. Jerren has also contributed meaningfully to Berkeley's student engagement initiatives, including participating in new student orientation and open house events, where his enthusiasm and reliability have made a lasting impression.

Jerren's positive attitude, integrity, and drive for excellence make him an ideal candidate for any opportunity he chooses to pursue. I am confident that he will bring the same level of dedication and professionalism to any role or organization fortunate enough to work with him.

Please feel free to contact me if you require any additional information.

Sincerely,

Timothy Cecere, MHC-LP
