To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing to recommend Jerren Ajodhasingh for your Real Estate Licensing Program Honors Program. Since Jerren received a solid A in my course in World Religions (HUM3312) I am in a good position to speak on his many talents.

Jerren was a fine and reliable student in my class. He was hardworking, congenial, and an overall pleasure to work with. He was also a strong presence outside of the classroom. Actively involved in the SDCL (Student Development and Campus Life), Jerren planned student events, promoted engagement across campus, and helped build a strong sense of community among the students.

Jerren is also dedicated to community service. Currently the president of ARK (Act of Random Kindness), Jerren leads initiatives such as food and clothing drives, the distribution of hygiene kits, and the organization of local outreach events. In addition, Jerren works as a Civic Commons Associate at the Brooklyn Public Library where he helps connect people with vital services, including voter registrations, passport applications, and IDNYC assistance.

In short, Jerren's knack for leadership and ability to communicate with others is evident in everything he puts his mind to. Having sold a home in the recent past I understand first-hand the importance of these skills and I recognize them in Jerren.

Do not hesitate to contact me if you need any more information on Jerren. My phone number is 917-494-8205, and my e-mail address is jow@berkeleycollege.edu.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Weidenbaum, Ph.D.
